A2D3 was born out of market demand.

Everbrite, one of the largest, full service visual identification companies in the United States, and D3, the global leader in specialized LED digital display applications, recognized the sports industry's need for a new solutions-based source for digital scoreboards and visual displays. Leveraging the extensive industry expertise of All American Scoreboards, the Everbrite-owned scoreboard division, and D3's cutting edge LED display technology, the two companies came together to offer sports venues of all sizes game changing digital scoring systems and visual display products.

This partnership ushered in a new age of technology for the future of spectator entertainment and customer/fan engagement. A2D3 products offer the most advanced engineered digital scoreboard and LED video display solutions available in the marketplace. A2D3 products are designed to increase up-front value, functionality, fan engagement, information delivery, and advertising and promotional opportunities.
